'Man is the measure of all things.'
A cliché perhaps, but a truism, and never more so than when we look back over recent years.
There have been few epochs more important in British History than the last three decades, and the history of the times is the history of the men that lived in them.
Many of these are still to be found in the succeeding pages of this book. Many more have passed on, and their stories, the very heart of contemporary history, can be found in the two volumes
WHO WAS WHO, 1897-1915, and 1916-1928. These two books, covering the war years, contain matter not to be found elsewhere, and save hours of research in back numbers of WHO'S WHO. They are published at 21/- net per volume by
A. & C. BLACK, LTD., at 4 Soho Square, London, W.1, and can be obtained from any bookseller.

AND FORMS OF ADDRESS

A Guide to Their Correct Use

A comprehensive book, most useful where help is needed in addressing titled people, whether formally or socially, in person or by post.

THIRD EDITION

Carefully revised and greatly amplified, with the addition of several new features.

A. & C. BLACK, LTD., 4, 5 & 6 Soho Sq., LONDON, W.1

Obtainable from all booksellers. 3/6 net (by post 3/9)

NOTE

As it was necessary to begin printing the book in August in many cases occurrences of a later date are not recorded; deaths reported up to the middle of October have been included, however, in the Obituary.

In view of misunderstandings that sometimes arise it should be pointed out that the statements in regard to children of a marriage should be the number of sons and daughters now living; also, under Clubs it is the practice to print the names of London clubs without the word London at the end, although in the case of clubs elsewhere the name of the towns where they are situated should be given.

It is well to bear in mind that a proof for correction cannot be sent unless there is an address. As any sort of correction, even well-meant attempts to cut down biographies, involves expense, it is requested that no alterations should be made unless absolutely necessary. Corrections must be made on the proofs themselves and not written out on separate slips of paper.

Any one who has had the Companionage of a British Order conferred on him and has not yet been included is invited to write for a form on which to fill in particulars as to birth, parentage, career, etc., for the next edition.

Is it fair to your best friend to make him your Executor? The duties are onerous, and usually thankless; the responsibilities are great and the penalties for neglect are severe. Moreover, he may die, and the expense of appointing his successor is considerable. On the other hand, if you appoint the Westminster Bank instead, the fees (which are paid out of your estate) will probably be only a fraction of the legacy which you would have left to a private trustee.

Ask for the 'Executor and Trustee' booklet at any local branch, or write to

IT BELONGS TO THE PUBLIC

● The Totalisator is simple, speedy and completely safe. Every penny invested is returned to the Public less a percentage for working expenses and all surplus funds will be allotted by the Board to the objects specified under the Racecourse Betting Act, 1928. No personal profit of any description can be made; the Board is a Statutory body, carrying out the duties imposed by Parliament. The steady expansion of the Totalisator shows how the service it is rendering is appreciated by the Public which owns it.

BLACK'S NEW SERIES OF COLOUR BOOKS

ENGLAND

By RONALD CARTON

ILLUSTRATED WITH 32 PLATES IN COLOUR FROM PAINTINGS BY DISTINGUISHED LANDSCAPE ARTISTS

'He has almost a muscular compulsion over vigorous words to make them do his bidding; and how rightly he can plunge the reader into the fitting mood for each varied scene. . . . Mr. Carton's book is to be read slowly for the pleasure of the writing, and at all times to be referred to quickly for its wealth of information. To have written a whole map, with signposts for the things of the spirit as well as the eye, is a feat and should endure.'—THE TIMES.

SOME PRESS OPINIONS

“‘Black's Medical Dictionary’ has long been a standard work of reference in many households since its first publication twenty years ago. . . . In its present form it is likely to maintain its high reputation, not as a manual of treatment, but as a source of such medical information as it is desirable should be accessible to the layman.”—The Scotsman.

“It is an invaluable help to nurses, teachers, professional men, health visitors and others who desire information. . . . It should be in every nursing library and in constant use for reference.”—Nursing Times.

“It is an excellent book. . . . It is thoroughly practical and abreast of the most recent medical theory and practice. . . . It would not be possible to find a more practical and helpful reference book for such classes as nurses, teachers, clergymen, public officials, or business men generally, who may in their daily lives have occasion suddenly to come in touch with medical affairs.”—Edinburgh Evening News.

“Nurses and midwives in charge of hospitals, homes, departments, wards, or teaching, will find it an almost necessary addition to their libraries; others who are anxious to go on increasing their knowledge will find reading this dictionary an interesting and easy way to do so.”—Nursing Notes.

Who's Who in the Blind World

AT THE NATIONAL INSTITUTE FOR THE BLIND THERE IS A BLIND WHO'S WHO, CONSTITUTING A RECORD OF THE MANY AND SOMETIMES ASTONISHING ACHIEVEMENTS OF BLIND PEOPLE.

These people have conquered blindness by their own courage and ability, and by making use of the special means devised to assist them.

The National Institute provides these special means. It is the largest publisher of Braille books and periodicals in the world ; it supplies apparatus and appliances ; it maintains Homes for Blind Babies, a College for Blind Girls, and a School of Massage. In brief, it helps in every possible way the 55,000 blind people of this country to attain independence and success.

Will you please help the Institute's work so that the number of people who, by their achievements, gain a place in the Blind Who's Who may be increased.
